

About Jacquie

Jacquie Ream was born in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, and raised in San Bernardino, California. She attended college by way of writing scholarships and received her Master's degree in creative writing from the University of Washington.

Jacquie has written three children's book and numerous short stories. She recently released her first adult fiction novel, Forcing the Hand of God and a young writers reference book, KISS: Keep it Short and Simple.

Jacquie has several new projects underway including a young adult novel, a pre-school illustrated coloring book and two more adult fiction books.

Jacquie has taught classes in creative writing for ages five through sixty-five years of age and is a passionate advocate for the importance of learning proper writing skills. She has been interviewed numerous times, both in print and on television and radio. She currently lives in Seattle, Washington, with her husband.

KISS: Keep it Short and Simple

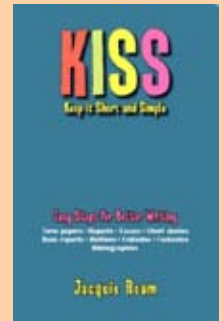

A reference book for school children, teachers and parents that shows simply the Easy Steps for Better Writing

KISS is a small book with a big promise: If you can read, you can write. KISS offers a simple approach to reducing your anxiety around writing by showing how to organize, write, and present papers effectively. Writing can be effortless and rewarding using the step-by-step examples in KISS.

Learn how to:

- read for content and context and organize what you know
- make your writing project easy to read and presentable
- build sentences into paragraphs and paragraphs into a paper
- write a letter, term paper, essay, memoir, fiction/non-fiction, resumes, and format a book report

"I've taught for thirty years; Ms. Ream's book is exactly what aspiring writers need to write, edit, and revise effectively and well. KISS will help writers acquire skills and incorporate rules and good habits for effective composition. I rate this as one of the best writing reference editions I've ever seen." - MM, Ph.D.

March 2005
$11.95
Available on
Amazon.com

For interviews, speaking engagements and special appearances, contact: Susan Burnash
Purple Duck Marketing (425) 896-8959 or susan@purpleduckmarketing.com
Visit Jacquie Ream's website at www.jacquiream.com

Forcing the Hand of God

A World War II fighter pilot wagers love, family and honor—forcing the hand of God

It is the late 30s and Fighter Pilot Major Rodger Brown of the Flying Tigers is deep in the thick of World War II. Back home, his pregnant wife, long time friend, parents and younger sisters anxiously await his return. Torn between his obligations to his country and family, Roger is a man tormented by the realization that he prefers battle in the air than the drudgery of everyday life on the ground.

February 2008
$19.95
Available on
Amazon.com

Forcing The Hand of God evokes a time (World War II) when men and women found the courage to do the necessary, the objectionable and even the unthinkable to defend their lives and preserve the essential fabric of this country. It is also a timeless story of self realization and the internal and external conflicts that are part of life for a military professional and the people he loves.

Reviews of Forcing the Hand of God

“Within the pages of Forcing the Hand of God, you will enter as a silent visitor among the private lives of ordinary people caught up in extraordinary times. Where love and desire compete with duty and honor, you become a witness to the intense passion for life that only appears when death threatens. Jacquie Ream weaves her web of words that will entangle every emotion that drives our need to embrace love and to exude anger. I emerged with a greater sense of appreciation for life’s gifts as well as its trials.”

- By William R. Stampe, CMSgt, USAF (CA)

“For those who love history, family, and honor, Forcing the Hand of God is engaging from the first page to the last. Author Jacquie Ream does an amazing job of intertwining love, longing, and family complexities into a compelling tale of a military fighter pilot and the internal decisions he must make for himself and others. Filled with irresistible characters right out of World War II, Forcing the Hand of God is an intricately woven story about relationships that push traditional boundaries”

- By Janet Stevens (Newport, RI)

For interviews, speaking engagements and special appearances, contact: Susan Burnash
Purple Duck Marketing (425) 896-8959 or susan@purpleduckmarketing.com
Visit Jacquie Ream’s website at www.jacquiream.com